CIRCULAR STAIRCASE

MARY ROBERTS RINEHART has accomplished a feat most rare in the experience of the publishing world with "The Circular Staircase."

Not an adverse note has been found in the storm of critical encomiums which has greeted its appearance.

From every part of the United States praise comes pouring in. Nothing but praise! Praise unlimited.

Cynics and optimists, professionals and amateurs, booksellers and bookbuyers vie with one another to say best what they all feel,---the magnificent triumph of Mary Roberts Rinehart and "The Circular Staircase."

Two Gentlemen of Virginia

By GEORGE CARY EGGLESTON

Illustrated, $1.50

No one but a Virginian gentleman is quite capable of depicting the ideal called to mind by that term, and no one lives better qualified to do so than George Cary Eggleston. As a love story, it is charming; as a picture of the "Old Régime," it is matchless.

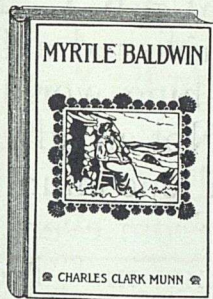

Myrtle Baldwin

By CHARLES CLARK MUNN

Illustrated, $1.50

This book is a revelation of life in the under world of a great city and is the most powerful and dramatic of all of this celebrated author's works.

The story is told with forceful vigor and pathos, and will hold the reader's attention from cover to cover.

The Shepherd of the Hills

A Novel by HAROLD BELL WRIGHT, author of
"THAT PRINTER OF UDELL'S"

NOTE: Since the publication of Mr. Wright's first book, "That Printer of Udell's" in 1903, sales have increased every year over those of the year preceding. A like record, on a very much larger scale, is now being made by Mr. Wright's greater success, "The Shepherd of the Hills."

"One of the best novels written in the English language for over a decade. . . . Good luck to the man who can put upon paper so fine a novel of American life."

—Pittsburg Press.

"There are many bits of excellent description in the course of the story, and an atmosphere as fresh and sweet and free from modern grime as one would breathe on the Ozark trails themselves."—New York Times.

COFFEE AND A LOVE AFFAIR

An American Girl's Romance on a Coffee Plantation

By MARY BOARDMAN SHELTON

This novel has the same feminine charm and sentiment that determined the striking success of some recent fiction issued in the same size at the same price. It will become widely popular with women readers of all tastes.

The heroine is a cheerful, resourceful American girl whom a sudden fancy takes to South America. Her vivacious and witty descriptions of the Sierra Nevadas and the life on a coffee plantation would of themselves distinguish the book. The rivalry for her hand on the part of an old lover from New York and an aristocratic Spaniard makes a fascinating romance.

A splendid book for an inexpensive gift.

HOLY ORDERS

The Tragedy of a Quiet Life

By MARIE CORELLI

A dramatic story of love and hate, of great strivings and splendid unselfishness contrasted with shameful greed and ignorant sloth.

Although the action takes place in quiet English villages, the problems are the same vital ones we are struggling with in America. The Drink Evil and the Temperance Question; the relations of the Christian Church and the yellow press to the lives of the common people, are matters of concern to us as much as to the English. These and still other burning questions have their part in HOLY ORDERS. Miss Corelli's admirers and readers, numbered by hundreds of thousands, will find this her most vital and important novel.

A SPIRIT IN PRISON

Will be Published Early in September

In Italy, his power of atmospheric narrative at its best, Mr. Hichens lays this new story. The action takes place on a small island in the bay just outside of Naples. Here Hermione is living with her child, Vere, a charming, gracious, childlike girl of sixteen. The story opens with a scene which is extremely light and pretty, at the same time portentous. It continues to a triumphant end.

NOTES IN SEASON.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have just ready "Flower of the Dusk," Myrtle Reed's new novel, full of all the witchery of imagination and sureness of technique that made "A Spinner in the Sun" and "Lavender and Old Lace" such delightful stories.

REILLY & BRITTON will have an entirely new Baum book in "Dorothy and the Wizard of Oz." The Baum books always capture old and young, and the publishers are doing an amount of clever advertising that will make the dealers' part an easy one.

MOFFAT, YARD & Co. publish to-day "The Big Fellow," by Frederick Palmer, a fine American book about a fine American hero and on a big American subject; and "The Spitfire," by Edward Peple, a novel of love and adventure with colored frontispiece by Christy, and other attractive pictures by J. V. McFall.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish September 12 "The Coming Harvest," by René Bazin, a strong story of life in the country in France to-day, the translation of a novel that has sold more than 100,000 copies in France since it appeared a few weeks ago; "Miss Esperance and Mr. Wycherly," by Allen Harker, a romance of a quiet English village by the author of "Concerning Paul and Fiametta;" and "The Bible of Nature," by J. Arthur Thomson.

FREDERICK A. STOKES Co. have just ready "By Right of Purchase," by Harold Bindloss; "Lentala of the South Seas," by W. C. Morrow; and "Coffee and a Love Affair," by Mary Boardman Sheldon. By September 18 they promise Marie Corelli's "Holy Orders: the Tragedy of a Quiet Life," in which questions such as temperance, yellow journalism, and the influence of the Christian Church to-day are freely handled.

BLOCH PUBLISHING Co., 738 Broadway, New York, ("The Jewish Book Concern,") call attention to their line of post-cards, Jewish New Year's cards and novelties of which the values are exceptional, enabling the retailer to realize a fine profit. The Jewish New Year begins Friday evening, September 25, and every dealer can be sure of large sales, for the Jews send New Year's cards not only to relations and friends, but to people with whom they have the slightest social relations. Bloch Publishing Co. offer descriptive price list and samples to all who will send for them.

MITCHELL KENNERLEY, New York City, publishes to-day Oliver Herford's adaptation of Ferenc Molnar's "The Devil," with illustrations from the play, which is now having so great a success in New York City. He has also just ready "The Astronomy of the Bible," by E. W. Maunder, a very important book by one of the leading authorities in England; and "The Methods of Mr. Ames," by Frederic Carrel, author of "John Johns," an extraordinary character study of a man of enormous wealth, possessed of some Machiavellian traits.

HARPER & BROTHERS will issue September 17 "The Testing of Diana Mallory," Mrs. Humphry Ward's new novel that has met with such high praise during its serial run in Harper's Magazine. The life of Diana Mallory, who began it under the cloud of the report that her young mother was a murderess, who was deserted by the lover who should have stood between her and calumny; who finally forgave all and went to her faithless lover to make a man of him, is told with all Mrs. Ward's fidelity and truth and more than her usual fire and passion. Very shortly the house will also have ready "A Spirit in Prison," a sequel to Robert Hichen's strong story, "The Call of the Blood," which begins sixteen years after that story closes, with its scene on a small island just outside the Bay of Naples. The mysteries of the first story are made clear and the new tale shows all the old force of that wonderful romance, "The Garden of Allah."

Professor Jackson, a great London scientist, claims to have made a discovery by which he can separate what he calls the astral body from the physical. While the physical lies in his laboratory in a death like trance the owner of the astral body can by willing it go to any part of the world he desires in a flash. A young Englishman, persuaded to make the experiment, wills himself (or his astral body) to India. There he finds himself in the temple of the Brotherhood of Wisdom, an association dedicated to the acquisition of scientific knowledge, at any price and by any means, and discovers they are holding as prisoner the astral body of a beautiful girl. How she or it is finally rescued, in spite of the weird powers of the Brotherhood, is told in many scenes of thrilling interest.

Written in the same attractive style that made "A little cook book" by the same author so popular. A book of practical hints for young people beginning housekeeping on small means; people of all ages and conditions of life will find the book of great value. It is written in a series of conversations, between a young girl looking forward to marriage in a year and her clever sister, an experienced, practical housekeeper. The subjects treated are: Dividing the income; The kitchen; Buying; Linen; Arranging the meals; Cooking; The table: The dinner; Breakfast; Luncheon; Supper; The emergency closet; Dinner parties; Luncheons for a little; Midsummer housekeeping and many others.

Bindloss, Harold. By right of purchase; with a front. in colours by Alfred Ja. Dewey. N. Y., Frederick A. Stokes Co., [1908.] c. 6+345 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The scene is western Canada, in a great wheat growing district. It is the story of a young English girl who marries the owner of an immense farm in the northwest through mercenary motives. She does not consider him her social equal, in fact rather despises him, because he works with his hands. Her gradual change, from antagonism to the mode of life and habits of thought of a new country, to contentment and happiness and admiration for the many noble qualities of her husband, whom she learns to love, is the story. The dangers they share bring out the girl's best traits, the conclusion being a victory for both.

Treats of the time relations found in English verse rhythm. States the defects of the current methods of studying the subject and the advantages of psychological experimentation by the aid of graphic records of the voice. Selected examples of English verse are then examined and the various theories of metrists and psychologists on the subject criticized in the light of the experimental results.

- Carpenter, Mrs. Kate E. Rushmore. The story of Frederick the Great for boys and girls; with il. and map. Bost., Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co., [1908.] c. 275 p. por. O. cl., $1.
An interesting part of the career of Frederick the Great is his unusual childhood, under the rule of one of the sternest fathers that a boy ever had. All this, as well as the story of his later triumphs which won for him the undying title of the "Great," is told in the pleasing style which has made Mrs. Carpenter's "Story of Joan of Arc" so continuously popular, and with scrupulous historical accuracy. The colored map showing "Prussia and her neighbors in the time of Frederick the Great" is a valuable feature.
- Charlton, Rev. Emanuel C. A Puritan captain. Dayton, O., Christian Publishing Co., 1908. c. 268 p. D. cl., $1.
The author was graduated from the quarterdeck of an old-time Boston and Australian packet and spent thirteen years as missionary sailor in Gloucester. He tells his story of love for his fellow sailors with animation. The puritan captain bethought him of selling the Gloucester fish to Spain, and the story tells the adventures this enterprising plan led to.
- Connolly, Ja. Brendan. An Olympic victor: a story of the modern games; with il. by A. Castaigne. N. Y., Scribner, 1908. c. 3-186 p. O. cl., $1.25.
A story of modern Greece which reaches its climax in the great Marathon race which was run at the revival of the Olympic games in 1896. Loues, the hero, is one of the Greek contestants in that race. His love for Marie, and his desire to win her, is the inciting cause of his participation in the race, of which he is the winner; the characters are well delineated, especially that of old Euripides, the lame shoemaker of Marousi, and the godfather of Loues. The author was one of the athletes who took part in the Olympic games.

The initial volume of the "Little heroine series." The story is for little girls and boys and tells of the early days of the Civil War, when it was very doubtful how portions of states adjoining the line of division would stand when the final test came. This little girl has the opportunity to render a service of greatest importance to the cause of the Union, and by rare discretion and physical courage and endurance is equal to the occasion.

"Lucci" is one of four boys who have a camp through a summer vacation on the shore of a fine lake. "Lucci" has been a waif, but is well-born and of great artistic ability. He repays the kindness of his young friends by proving himself a real hero when occasion offers. A unique and valuable feature of the story is the instruction the boys receive while merrily helping a friendly gentleman build a home for himself. Various interesting mechanical points are interestingly explained, and the plans of the house are shown, just as the boys helped to build it.

In giving his novel a setting in Virginia, in the year 1857, the author finds his opportunity of making use of knowledge obtained at first hand fifty years ago of the social life of that period. He depicts conditions which actually existed, and considers problems the slave owner had to deal with, little understood even at present. The "two gentlemen of Virginia" are a wealthy plantation owner and his nephew, both men of fine character. The story unwinds itself in the picturesque life of the plantation; it is a love story chiefly, having a most interesting heroine, whose history is cleverly concealed, keeping the reader's curiosity alive almost until the last page.

In the spring of 1907 Dr. Grey was the companion of the man known as Buffalo Jones in a trip across the Arizona Desert in pursuit of mountain lions and other large game. He describes the trip and also includes many reminiscences of the old plainsman who is known as "the preserver of the American bison." Buffalo Jones was born 62 years ago in Illinois. His passion was to capture alive, not to kill, the game. He has caught and broken the will of every wild beast native to western North America.

The adventures of Jack and his friends have already filled a number of volumes. This one takes Jack into regions of great interest in northern Montana, which until recent years have remained almost unknown to man. A bill is now in the U. S. Senate advocating the preservation of this district as a public park. Jack, his guide Hugh and an Indian boy climb the mountains, see the ice fields and glaciers, and learn much about the animals and birds and the geological nature of the country. They encounter whisky traders and Indians hostile and friendly, and find much big game.

The desert is the Arizona desert. A man imprisoned for a murder through the treachery of a lawyer breaks jail a wreck, and implores the lawyer for means to reach home to die. The lawyer again betrays him. He breaks from his captors and roams for months through the desert, building up his health and becoming once more a man with hopes and ambitions. Then comes the return to civilization and the coming into the poor prisoner's life a deep, strong, enduring joy. The author has spent two or three years away from civilization in a cañon in the Contra Costa foothills, California.

A criticism of Christian Science from the standpoint of a Catholic priest. Christian Science, he says, is part of the Modernism which Pope Pius x. has condemned. His pamphlet is largely quotations from Mrs. Eddy's "Science and health" and his refutations. As priest and missionary he warns Catholics against the sect which is neither Christian, because it believes in travesties of the teaching of Jesus, nor Science, because it is not a knowledge of causes and a system, but "a jumble of random absurdities."

Lair, Jules. Louise de La Vallière and the early life of Louis xiv. from unpublished documents; tr. from the 4th French ed. by Ethel Coburn Mayne; with illustrations. N. Y., Putnam, 1908. 12+411 p. pors. O. (Memoir ser.) cl., *$3.50 net.

This study of Louise de la Vallière occupied the leisure hours of six years in the author's life, and is based upon new letters and papers. It was first published in 1880, and has gone through four editions in France. Besides giving the life of the beautiful and fascinating Frenchwoman, maid of honor to the Duchesse d'Orleans, and mistress of Louis xiv. (who made her a duchess), the volume includes the leading scandals of this great monarch's reign. The writer succeeds in portraying this celebrated favorite in most attractive colors; her best traits are brought to the front, and neither is her sin or her repentance forgotten. Index.

Munn, C: Clark. Myrtle Baldwin; il. by H: Roth. Bost., Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co., [1908.] c. 510 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

The heroine grows up, almost a prisoner, on a little island with her brutal grandfather, who makes a living as a fisherman, and her spinster aunt. She is discovered by the hero, a travelling salesman out on a vacation in his friend's yacht. He is an honorable man and, after hearing her pitiful story, helps her to run away and obtain a position in a large city where she may earn her living. Her story shows how hard it is for any self-respecting young girl of average good looks and without friends or money to earn an honest livelihood and preserve her good name. Myrtle Baldwin does both however, the book ending with a happy marriage.

Author is professor of history, Allegheny College. The subject of this biography is Gregory VII., known as Saint Hildebrand. He was born at Saona, Tuscany, about 1020; died at Salerno, Italy, May 25, 1085. He was of obscure birth, and first came into notice as chaplain to Gregory VI., succeeding him as Pope in 1073, until his death in 1085. His reforms within the Catholic church, and his introduction of broad and most intelligent changes in ecclesiastical rules, serving to build the Papacy, earned him the name of "the builder."

Peter Grayson was receiving teller in a well-established old bank in Wall St. He was a delightful, middle-aged man of good family, dearly loving young people, who remained faithful to his comfortable apartment on Fifteenth St. long after the neighborhood had been given over to business. While not the hero, he is a strong influence in the life of the hero, an attractive young man, who comes up from Maryland to take a position in his uncle's stock broking office in Wall St. Disgusted after a few months with the business he seeks Peter's advice. His struggles to make his way in the world and his love affairs are related in a sympathetic way that is very real. The story is a clean, wholesome one, not without its moral.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

SEPTEMBER 5, 1908.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

FICTION AS A MENACE TO THE BOOKTRADE.

WE took occasion a short time ago to point out the desirability of stemming the tide of what the London Nation calls "pedestrian work," that is, books of a vulgar or common grade, whether it be fiction or other printed matter—all of which does so much to interfere with the distribution of books of real merit. Undoubtedly, the sale of momentarily popular books sometimes adds considerably to the income of the bookseller; but, on the other hand, farsceing booksellers are coming to realize more and more that the concentration of their efforts upon merchandise of that sort has reacted disadvantageously upon the sale of better books.

We have reached a period in the history of the booktrade, it seems to us, when it is imperative that the booktrade and the public are disabused of the delusion that bookselling is merely the handling of fiction. That way of thinking has caused more confusion, brought more bad feeling into the trade and has actually caused more harm to both publisher and bookseller than all the other perplexities that beset the booktrade put together. It is just because so little knowledge is required to handle fiction, and because the equivocal price of novels is so generally known to the public that the department stores, that usually have larger means at their command than most any half-dozen booksellers in their vicinity combined, seize upon it as bait to bamboozle the public into believing that everything they offer is sold at the same rate at which they sell books—that is, fiction. These stores rarely venture further into the book business than to exploit the novel of the hour, the competitive reprints or remainders of cheaply-made books offered at one time or another by "fly-by-night" publishing concerns as premiums or bait for other ventures, thus leaving the field of the more substantial books to the regular bookseller; and those department stores that do venture to maintain a well-equipped book department realize very quickly that they cannot afford to cut the prices on the better class of books so deeply—if at all—as they can on the books on which there is less risk and which require only the service of the average shop-girl, who to-day is in the tin-ware department, the next day at the ribbon counter, and on another day, when needed to help out, acts as a bookseller.

The more wide-awake publisher, also, is beginning to realize that in cultivating fiction in the hopes of keeping his plant employed and adding to his income, he is engaged in chasing an ignis fatuus. The further he ventures in this direction the deeper he finds himself in the mire, and the less he is in a position to develop the more solid and profitable feature of his profession. Indeed, there is already noticeable a tendency on the part of some of the older publishing houses to make fewer ventures into the realm of fiction, restricting themselves to the products of the authors already on their lists or the really meritorious work of a new writer, and devoting most of their energy, instead, to the publishing of serious books from which only moderate sales can be expected, but from which larger and more certain profits are bound to accrue.

The bookseller, we claim, has an ever widening and growing field as his own, because there are very large classes of books constantly published which are always in demand, and on which the undersellers never cut the price and which are never included in their advertising campaign. Readers in this country are not exclusively readers of fiction, good or bad; and if, unfortunately, in the near future, some publishers should be so blind to their own best interests as to enable the undersellers to discredit the booktrade by beating the life out of the "best sellers," we trust the booksellers of the country will have backbone enough to assist them by "sticking to their last," and by buying only enough of their output of fiction to supply the actual demands of their customers, and to devote the better part of their time and attention to the dissemination of books that are books, the books of all time and for all seasons, the books that count and are more rapidly coming into their own.

We therefore hope that if fiction ever becomes an incubus, and threatens to sap the life of the booktrade, the bookseller may be forearmed to meet the danger before it is too late, because in that event even a revolution might prove futile.

THE VAST COST OF COMPILATIONS.

THE American Consul at Frankfort, Richard Guenther, reports that announcement was made at the annual meeting of the Association of German Engineers, recently held at Dresden, that the great work of compiling the "New Technical Dictionary" had to be stopped, because it was found that the expense of the undertaking would amount to four times the estimates. Mr. Guenther adds:

"The great progress in science and industries had created a vast mass of new terms and matter largely in excess of what had been estimated at the beginning. This stoppage is to be greatly regretted, as the want of a new technical dictionary and encyclopædia is acutely felt by thousands of persons engaged in scientific research, in all lines of commerce and production, in literature, journalism, and in the administration of state and municipal government. It is, however, satisfactory to note that the executive board of the Association of German Engineers has made strenuous efforts to take up and complete this valuable work, and has succeeded in obtaining therefor the aid of the federal government of Germany and of the Ministry of Education of the Prussian Kingdom."

THE NEW CHIEF ASSISTANT LIBRARIAN.

APPLETON PRENTISS CLARK GRIFFIN has been appointed to the place of Chief Assistant Librarian, Library of Congress, made vacant by the death of Dr. Ainsworth R. Spofford.

Mr. Griffin has served as a member of the staff of the Library of Congress for eleven years. Since 1900 he has been chief bibliographer, in charge of the elaborate research undertaken by the Library of Congress, and the compilation of lists of references which the library issues on current public questions; in particular, questions receiving the attention of Congress. His previous service had been in the Boston Public and the Lenox libraries. Mr. Griffin is one of the foremost bibliographers in this country. He is widely known as the compiler of important bibliographic works. Aside from those published by the Library of Congress may be mentioned his "Catalogue of the Washington Collection of the Boston Athenæum," 1897, and his "Bibliography of American Historical Societies," 1907.

COMMUNICATION.

THE NEW BRITISH PATENT LAW.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: The papers of yesterday contained a cable from London as follows:

PATENT LAWS TO NET ENGLAND $125,000,000.

LONDON, Aug. 28.

The year of grace granted to foreigners under the new patent act expires to-day, and henceforth foreign patents in this country may be revoked by Great Britain after a reasonable interval unless the patented article is manufactured or the patented process is operated in the United Kingdom to an adequate extent.

A great number of foreign firms already have taken sites and started works in Great Britain; many others are making arrangements to do so. These are mainly German and American firms.

Sir Alfred Jones, head of a prominent firm of ship owners, estimates that $125,000,000 will thus be invested here for the manufacture of articles formerly manufactured abroad, and a prominent expert in patent law thinks that no fewer than 8000 patents granted to foreigners will come under the new law.

Here is a fact of profound significance, of importance, of even-handed justice. No more beneficent law has been enacted by Parliament within the past sixty years, since Sir Robert Peel betrayed his country, by admitting foreigners, untaxed, to British markets, under the false name of "free trade," there to compete with every heavily taxed British subject.

This patent law is in entire harmony with the manufacturing clause of our recent copyright acts, and it is not impossible that the British Government may have gotten the idea from these American acts; and it may be stated here that the only reason why the idealists have not succeeded in striking this wise provision from our statutes has been the determined opposition of the Typographical Union—an organization to which the late Booktrade Association of this city was indebted for its uniform success during the entire period of its existence. This association was always in close touch with the union.

This is not an ideal world, and the idealist should long since have learned this great fact and ceased accordingly to apply his ideals "up in the air" to a world of selfishness and wickedness. Trade is war, and it was never more fierce than now, and the sooner we get our battleships and guns of trade under the rule of men who understand this real, this dominating impulse in the situation, the better.

"All hail to the new British Patent Act; bright harbinger of returning to sanity and to statesmanship!"

HENRY CAREY BAIRD.

PHILADELPHIA, August 29, 1908.

PERSONAL NOTES.

HAROLD PAGET, formerly manager of The John Lane Company, New York, and until recently publisher to Cassell & Company, Ltd., London, has just returned to New York to take the management of the rising publishing business of The John McBride Company. Mr. Paget will also represent in the United States the London firms of Alston Rovers & Company and Eveleigh Nash, as well as looking after the interests here of several English authors.

OBITUARY NOTES.

GEORGE P. ROWELL.

GEORGE P. ROWELL, prominent for many years in the newspaper advertising business, died on Friday, August 28, at Poland Springs, Me., where he had gone in search of health a few weeks back. Mr. Rowell was born at Concord, Vt., on July 4, 1838. After studying in the Lancaster (N. H.) Academy he went to Boston and for a short time was clerk in a retail store, after which he served seven years in the counting room of the Boston Post. In 1865, with Horace Dodd, Mr. Rowell started the business that has carried his name since. Through inquiries as to the best advertising mediums and the information gathered in response to these inquiries, Mr. Rowell accumulated a list of 3000 newspapers in the United States and Canada, and from this beginning the "American Newspaper Directory," known in every newspaper office in this country and Canada, was evolved and started in Boston.

Mr. Rowell, however, soon noticed that the advertising centre of the country was New York, and in 1867 he came to this city. In 1870 Mr. Rowell and his associates bought out John Hopper, a pioneer advertising agent of New York, and extended the scope of his business. At the Centennial Exposition in 1876 Mr. Rowell prepared a comprehensive newspaper exhibit, the first of its kind in this country. He was progressive and original in his methods and maintained his place at the head of his line of business. In 1888 Mr. Rowell started Printer's Ink, a weekly publication full of bright advice to advertisers. Mr. Rowell was a life member of the New England Society of New York, a member of the American Geographical Society of New York, Historical Society, American Forestry Association, New York Chamber of Commerce, Society of Mechanics and Tradesmen, and New York Charity Organization Society. He was a member of the Sphinx, Union League, and Merchants Clubs of New York City. Mr. Rowell was taken to Lancaster, N. H., his boyhood home, for interment.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

It is delightful to hear that Comyns Carr is to publish his reminiscences. He has been in the thick of things literary, artistic and theatrical in London for a long time, and his memories of the æsthetic movement, of Whistler, and, indeed, of countless events and personalities, must make entertaining reading.

It is announced that the authorized "Life of Grover Cleveland" is to be written by his friend, John Finley, president of the College of the City of New York. Mr. Finley asks that persons having letters or other memorials of Mr. Cleveland will kindly loan them to him for the purpose of the biography. All manuscripts will be promptly copied and the originals returned to the owner. Communications should be addressed President John Finley, College of the City of New York, St. Nicholas Terrace, New York City.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

B. W. DODGE & Co. will issue September 16 "The Broken Snare," by Ludwig Lewisohn, a powerful psychological study of the marriage relation and the final giving in of a man and a woman who started out to defy the conventions.

D. APPLETON & Co. appeal to the trade to place orders for Robert W. Chambers's "The Firing Line" as far in advance as possible to avoid delays. The second edition, bringing the copies issued up to 120,000, is already almost exhausted.

DANA ESTES & Co. are now ready for orders on "The Wooing of Calvin Parks," by Laura E. Richards, a humorous story of "down east;" and "Living on a Little," by Caroline French Benton, a volume of practical hints to young people, both already fully mentioned in former issues.

DUFFIELD & Co. announce for publication on the 15th a new novel entitled "Heartbreak Hill," by Herman Knickerbocker Viele, author of "The Inn of the Silver Moon," "Myra of the Pines" and "The Last of the Knickerbockers," which is said to equal all his former excellent imaginative and descriptive work.

A NEW edition of Judge Tourgée's popular Chautauqua romance, entitled "Button's Inn," has just been put on the market by Mrs. Emma K. Tourgée, the late writer's wife, who will handle at wholesale or retail from her residence at Mayville, Chautauqua Co., N. Y. The old inn is now gone, but the Westfield Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution propose to mark the site by a boulder.

THE INTERNATIONAL CABLE DIRECTORY Co., No. 17 State Street, New York City, has just ready the tenth annual number of "The International Cable Directory of the World, 1908," which shows a steady growth over previous years. A new feature of this indispensable book is an alphabetical arrangement of the tens of thousands of cable registrations of subscribers to the "Western Union Telegraph Code."

McLOUGHLIN BROTHERS have a selling book in "The Reminiscences of a Forty-Niner," the memoirs of Cornelius Cole, ex-Senator of the United States from California, which they issued in the spring and which is now coming into its own. The book really supplements the local histories of every section and period it covers from 1843 to 1872, those wonderful years when the United States leaped from a struggling nation into a world power.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT Co. call the attention of dealers to the great success of John Reed Scott's "The Princess Dehra," which has been on the list of six best-sellers in twelve important cities from Maine to California, and ask them the telling question, "Are you selling your share?" The publishers also announce as now ready volume iv. of John Bassett Moore's exhaustive edition of "The Works of James Buchanan." This last volume covers from 1838 to 1841.

C. H. DOSCHER & Co. have just ready a story by "Alexander McArthur," (Mrs. Joseph Nichola,) entitled "The Leveller." The author is already known by her excellent "Life of Rubinstein," and she has taken the great Russian musician as one of the chief characters of her new novel. The heroine is supposed to be a favorite pupil of the great pianist, and her love story is troubled. She is a Jewess, and the Jews, Russia, nihilism and nihilists furnish rich material which has been skilfully used.

SAALFIELD PUBLISHING Co. call special attention to their line of Webster Dictionaries, which include "Webster's Imperial Dictionary," so fully up to date that it claims to need no supplement; "Handy Dictionaries for Students," four volumes gleaned from the "Imperial"—"Inter-Collegiate Dictionary," "Adequate Dictionary," "Sterling Dictionary" and "Brief Imperial Dictionary." These books are gotten out on Bible paper and contain a vast amount of matter in small compass, the whole made attractive in neat bindings of cloth or leather.

THE JOHN MCBRIDE COMPANY will publish early this fall a translation from the German of Angelo Neumann's "Reminiscences of Richard Wagner," ("Errinerungen an Richard Wagner.") The interest of the book mainly centres in the account given of Richard Wagner's practical participation in the rehearsing and staging of his operas. Other sides of this man of genius have been shown to the world in books—the composer, poet, philosopher, lover, etc.—but in the rôle of opera-director he has not hitherto appeared. It is said that the work will prove of surpassing interest to all Wagnerians, music lovers, and opera goers.

THE MACMILLAN Co. have just ready "Cousin Cinderella," by Mrs. Everard Cotes, better loved perhaps as Sara Jeannette Duncan, who now tells the story of a Canadian girl on English soil. It is possible that a professor of sociology might find in this volume a veiled treatise on the customs and manners of the British people; but the average reader is likely to discover nothing more than a delightful story, full of wit and with any number of sharp, satirical allusions showing the author's keen observation. For young people they have also just out "Red Cap Adventures," by S. R. Crockett, a fitting companion for "Red Cap Tales." It again retells for youthful minds some of the best stories in the Waverley novels.

L. C. PAGE & Co. publish to-day in booklet form, uniform with "The Three Weavers," "The Desert of Waiting," etc., the little play "The Princess Winsome," from "The Little Colonel's Hero," by Annie Fellows Johnston. This little play has become very popular among children's clubs for private theatricals, and its appearance in separate form will be heartily welcomed by countless young amateur actors and actresses. The publishers have also just gone to press with a seventh edition, (5000 copies,) of Mrs. Johnston's exquisite little allegory, "In the Desert of Waiting." The spiritual significance and beauty of this story appeals even more to grown ups than to children, so that it has come to be classified among the standard booklets for older readers.

JOHN LANE COMPANY, (The Bodley Head,) have just ready "The Brotherhood of Wisdom," a novel of occult interest by Frances J. Armour, in which the heroine's astral body is long held imprisoned in India while her material body is undergoing experiences on the other side of the world; and "The High Adventure," a romance full of subtle psychology, by Hugh De Selincourt, of which the hero is a young clerk in the British Museum. In other lines than fiction are ready "Pleasure and Problem in South Africa," by Cecil Harmsworth, a member of Parliament, treating of Great Britain's vast African possessions; "Six Cities of Spain," a new volume in the Spanish Series; and "The Small Holding," by F. E. Green, a new comer in the Country Handbook Series.

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & Co. will publish during the month three promising volumes of essays on ethical subjects: "Counsels by the Way," by Henry Van Dyke; "On the Open Road," by Ralph Waldo Trine; and "The Free Life," by Woodrow Wilson. Among the books of religious trend for September are: "The Character of Jesus," by Dr. Charles E. Jefferson; and "The Wider Life" and "Evening Thoughts," both by Dr. J. R. Miller. Also almost ready are five new juveniles: "Old Man Coyote," an Indian fairy book, by Clara K. Bayliss; "The Fire-fly's Lovers," a Japanese fairy-book, by William E. Griffiths; "Stories of Persian Heroes," by E. M. W. Buxton; "The Galleon Treasure," a tale of adventure by Percy K. Fitzhugh; and "Two Stowaways," a tale of the fishing banks, by James Otis.

HILLS & HAFELY Co., New York City, have ready a handsome leather mounted memorandum calendar pad for the desk called "The Day's Reminder." Each day has one leaf ruled off for the engagement of every hour from eight in the morning until nine at night and there is also a carefully selected quotation on each leaf. The mounting is Spanish morocco and it comes in three colors—red, maroon and dark green. The same improved block calendar is made with a leatherette backing and cloth flap to retail for $1 and with leatherette mounting for $1.50. Other calendars in booklet form are "Music Lovers' Calendar," "Book Lovers' Calendar," "Stepping Stones" and "The Shakespearian Year Book." These are made in different bindings—board, leather, etc., to retail from 50 cents to $1.25. They have appropriate quotations and space for notes.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. will bring out early in September a new volume by Edith Sichel, entitled "The Later Years of Catherine de Medici," carrying the story of Catherine's life from 1562 down to her death in 1589; "The Alps in Nature and History," by W. A. B. Coolidge, based on forty years of climbing and study in all parts of the Alps, dealing with the history of mountaineering, the Alpine passes, Alpine guides and the Alpine folks; the third and concluding volume of "Life and Letters of H. Taine," covering the period from 1871 to 1894, translated from the French by E. Sparvet-Bayly, with a prefatory note by Thomas Seccombe; also, two novels—"The Expensive Miss du Cane" and "Three Miss Graemes," both by S. Macnaughton. The house also has in preparation "A History of Water Color Painting," by H. M. Cundall, with a chronological list of the painters, with dates of birth and death and brief accounts of their lives, with fifty colored illustrations; "Granada, Present and Bygone," by A. F. Calvert, with illustrations in color and black-and-white; "Baldassare Castiglione, the Perfect Courtier, his Life and Letters," by Julia Cartwright, (Mrs. Ady,) author of "Isabella d'Este," a critical edition of "Beethoven's Letters," with explanatory notes by Dr. Alfred C. Kalischer, translated by J. S. Shedlock; Jane Austen's "Mansfield Park" and "Sense and Sensibility," two volumes in The English Idylls series, with colored illustrations by C. E. Brock; also, "The Making of Canada, 1763-1814," by A. G. Bradley, a sequel to the author's "The Fight with France for North America."

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will issue on September 12 "The Leaven of Love," by Clara Louise Burnham, a novel of the far shores of the Pacific, picturing life in winter resorts of Southern California. This book will also be issued in reinforced binding, as recommended by the binding committee of the American Library Association. For young people there will be "Mad Anthony's Young Scout," by Everett T. Tomlinson, the scene Philadelphia, Valley Forge and the surrounding region during the winter of 1777-78; a new edition of "American Hero Stories," by Eva March Tappan; and a fourth edition of "The Children's Year Book," a book of Bible selections for every day of the year. "Poems of New England" is published as a separate volume, taken from Longfellow's "Poems of Places;" and "The Book of the Little Past," by Josephine Preston Peabody, (Mrs. L. S. Marks,) will be a new book of lyric poems by this popular singer, illustrated in full color by Elizabeth Shippin Green, a book which will be equally welcome to young and old. September 12 will also bring "Children's Classics in Dramatic Form," a reader for the fourth grade, by Augusta Stevenson, who has dramatized versions of tales from Andersen, Grimm, Æsop, and other favorites for the purpose of arousing greater interest in oral reading and developing an expressive voice; and "Selections from the Works of John Ruskin," edited, with introduction and notes, by Chauncey B. Tinker and Lucius H. Holt, the newest addition to the Riverside Literature Series. The house has also just ready the following educational books: "Argumentation and Debating," by William Tru fant Foster; "The Beginners' Series of Reading Books," consisting of a "Primer" and "First Reader;" a Students' edition of Edmund C. Stedman's "An American Anthology" and "A Victorian Anthology;" and in the Riverside Literature Series "Literature for the Study of Language," poems and prose selected to meet the course of study for the common schools of North Dakota.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No reduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no account must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

IN In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash.]

WRITE Write your wants plainly, and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay" book-sellers should take the usual precautions, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

The Reminiscences of a Forty-Niner

Memoirs of Cornelius Cole

EX-SENATOR OF THE U. S. FROM CALIFORNIA

Senator Cole was born and brought up on his father's farm in Western New York, and received his schooling in the Lima Seminary, Geneva College, and at Wesleyan University in Connecticut. He was fortunate in his teachers and classmates who were without exception men of learning and refinement. Following the "Star of the Empire," Cole by degrees moved further West until, in '49, the gold fever drew him to the Pacific coast. From that time all his interests were merged with those of the far West. During the war between the states he espoused her cause in the field, after the war he defended her interests in the legislative halls. Mr. Cole's life was an unusually active and influential one, and his narrative, unvarnished as it is, is a fascinating one. His descriptions of men and things in the early days East and West, of the trials and struggles of the Argonauts during the gold-fever period, are strikingly clear and convincing. The book supplements every local history of the section and period it covers, from 1843 to 1872. The book is well made and has as a frontispiece a photogravure of Senator Cole.

"A book that will be of historical interest is 'Memoirs of Cornelius Cole,' another one of those volumes that will be looked to by students of the next generation who will be conducting original research into the history of California. * * * * *

"What he has to tell in this book of Memoirs is well worth harkening to."—[The San Francisco Examiner, May 24, 1908.]

"Cornelius Cole, ex-Senator of the United States from California, has rendered an important service to the history of his State by the impressive volume of recollections that has just been given to the public. * * * It is a picture of faithful and sincere citizenship, of conscientious and unassuming public service."—[The Argonaut, San Francisco, May 16, 1908.]

"Ex-Senator Cole's book is so interesting that no justice can be done to it in a short review. Its chief value lies in its pen pictures of famous men and of noteworthy events."—[San Francisco Call Chronicle.]

JUST PUBLISHED

A New Animal Story Book, by the author of "Beautiful Joe," entitled

MY PETS

By MARSHALL SAUNDERS

Illustrated in colors and black and white by Charles Copeland, the well-known artist

Endorsed by Humane Societies, Audubon Societies, and lovers of animals generally. Its success as one of the best sellers is assured. Large advance orders already received.

Price, $1.25

THIS BOOK might very properly be called a companion volume to "Beautiful Joe," by the same author. Like that immensely popular autobiography of a dog, this new work delineates animal life in a way that will fascinate and charm the children, and the hundreds of thousands of boys and girls who have come under the spell of Beautiful Joe's recital will be eager to read about the pets of the author of that "beautiful tale of an ugly dog." The number and variety of birds and animals that pass in review in this volume present to the reader an altogether delightful procession. There is a wealth of very unusual incidents in animal life. In addition to the suggestions for the care of animals there is in the back of the volume a section of blank pages, headed "A Record of My Pets." On these pages the owner of the book can record the name, variety, and all facts in regard to the life of their pet animals.
